

Dan Yang

Director General

Yang leads a diversified team in AIIB responsible for building the Bank's institutional infrastructure focusing on corporate procurement, facilities management, administrative services, records and information and security and emergency. She also oversees the Bank's business continuity framework. Prior to joining AIIB, Yang held senior positions at the Asian Development Bank, including as director of procurement and deputy country director for the People's Republic of China resident mission. Dan holds a bachelor's degree in English Linguistics and a diploma in Development Economics from Inner Mongolian Normal University and Beijing Normal University. She also has an MPA degree from Washington University. Yang is a national of China.